Argento Vivo

Sculpturally refined to its essential form, with crisp corner detailing and lean, long lines, Argento Vivo was designed by Roberto Pezzetta to provide the ultimate cooking and entertaining experience. Pezzetta brings to his first cabinet project, his years of experience designing kitchen appliances. Like a well conceived machine, the minimal thickness of the countertop combined with the reduced height of the toe kick maximizes the amount of interior storage. Tall curved glass cabinets act as a fully functional backdrop to a linear central island providing all kitchen necessities. A double sided prep area encourages multiple participants to clean and cook simultaneously, while a circular glass dining table with recessed wine cooler/fruit bowl, at the end, provides the appropriate hospitality. To aide the festive ambience, internal LED illumination around the wine cooler emits a warm glow. Argento Vivo comes in yellow, blue, green, orange or more classic white, black or silver, either matte or glossy. Clear glass countertops, which transmit the underlying color of the cabinetry are combined with a black Corian central work surface insert that blends seamlessly with cooktop and sink. In 2009 Argento Vivo received the Good Design Award from the Chicago Athenaeum.

Velvet

Velvet features one of the most extensive cabinetry systems in the GeD Cucine repertoire. Within this range, one can create modern kitchens with uninterrupted runs of glass, lacquer, or natural woods, in a single material, or in unending combinations of colors, materials and textures emphasizing the sculptural effect of the storage volumes. Numerous glass and lacquer colors, both shiny and matte, range from ruby red to icy white, aquamarine and leaf green. Woods including Canaletto walnut, and oak, come in natural finish or various stains. The tempered glass doors are set into anodized aluminum frames with built in handle, to assure that glass edges don't get chipped. A version called Velvet SM features jewelry-like hardware.

Seta

With a Zen-like, understated simplicity and ample storage, Seta allows a homeowner to cook in a soothing environment that enables food preparation and entertaining to be a more relaxing experience.

Flat doors offer a clean backdrop for a variety hardware profiles including a recessed pull that virtually disappears in a linear composition along the top or bottom of the drawers or cabinets. With its ample enclosed storage, both floor standing and wall hung, Seta can be customized with combinations of matte and glossy finish materials in a variety of colors and woods. An exclusive rough saw textured oak, called "seghettato" offers a tactile texture that is particularly appealing when contrasted by a smooth lacquer in a choice of 19 colors.

By creative combination of finishes, storage pieces and colors, architects and designers can create what is essentially a custom environment made through a rigorous, mechanized production process that assures top quality and consistency from order placement to final installation.

Space

Space offers an efficient kitchen solution with maximized storage, ergonomic functionality and aesthetic beauty within the confines of a minimized foot print. High tech laser cut cabinetry reduces raw material usage and produces a refined lacquer finish in glossy white or beige that seamlessly envelopes visible panels. The streamlined design features a recessed profile handhold, in aluminum or glossy white, to open doors and drawers. Adding texture to the design, cabinets can also be made of a solid, rough saw "seghettato" wood in white oak, tobacco or moka. Countertops are offered in a unique laminate with a stone or textile-like texture.

Treviso

Treviso, home town of GeD Cucine, brings to mind ancient architecture, the tastes and smells of classic Italian cooking, and the gathering of family and friends. This kitchen most thoroughly proposes the linking of living and dining areas through an architectural approach combining cabinets in a multiple of heights that will work throughout the home. Tables that run off cabinets divide space and create gathering areas. A steel work surface hides the sink behind a sliding metal panel for post-prandial viewing. Classic, yet modern, Treviso has tactile wood fronts in graphite or natural oak, or teak, thickly framed on three sides, with handles carved directly into the surface. Cabinets combine open shelving and ample closed storage to create an environment that is both functional and inviting.

Fiamma

The warmth of sepia-toned walnut merges with clean, modern lines to create Fiamma, or flame, a kitchen designed by Giancarlo Fabro, that easily becomes the heart of a home.

Characterized by the wide, horizontal, almost slatted banding of the walnut, this kitchen combines living and dining areas through cabinetry featuring two-level work surfaces and capacious drawers and shelving behind unbroken wood expanses. Intelligent storage options for plates, cookware and appliances help maintain a calm, clutter free environment.

Doors feature thin metal, or wood and metal handles that contribute to the overall well being of this design.

Life

Life keeps in balance functional practicality and beauty in the kitchen. Recessed door pulls, seamlessly inserted into smooth door fronts, are both pleasant to the touch and easy to clean; unbroken lines in cabinet fronts are maintained by this unobtrusive horizontal detail. A rigorously modular design allows for myriad possibilities, while lacquer-like laminate finishes on vertical surfaces are numerous and include both matte and glossy textures in white, pine and ruby red. Counters and backsplashes are offered in a selection of embossed wood- and stone-like laminates.

Gioiosa

GeD Cucine moves on once more respecting the combination of tradition and modernity that has been its trademark in the industry. Doors surfaces, countertops and all the accessories are made with perfectly harmonious depths. The high relief surfaces and the quality of the lacquered finishes provide Gioiosa by GeD Cucine with a generous look and delicate feeling of pleasant wellness.
