SINCE 1865

Hatton and Topaz

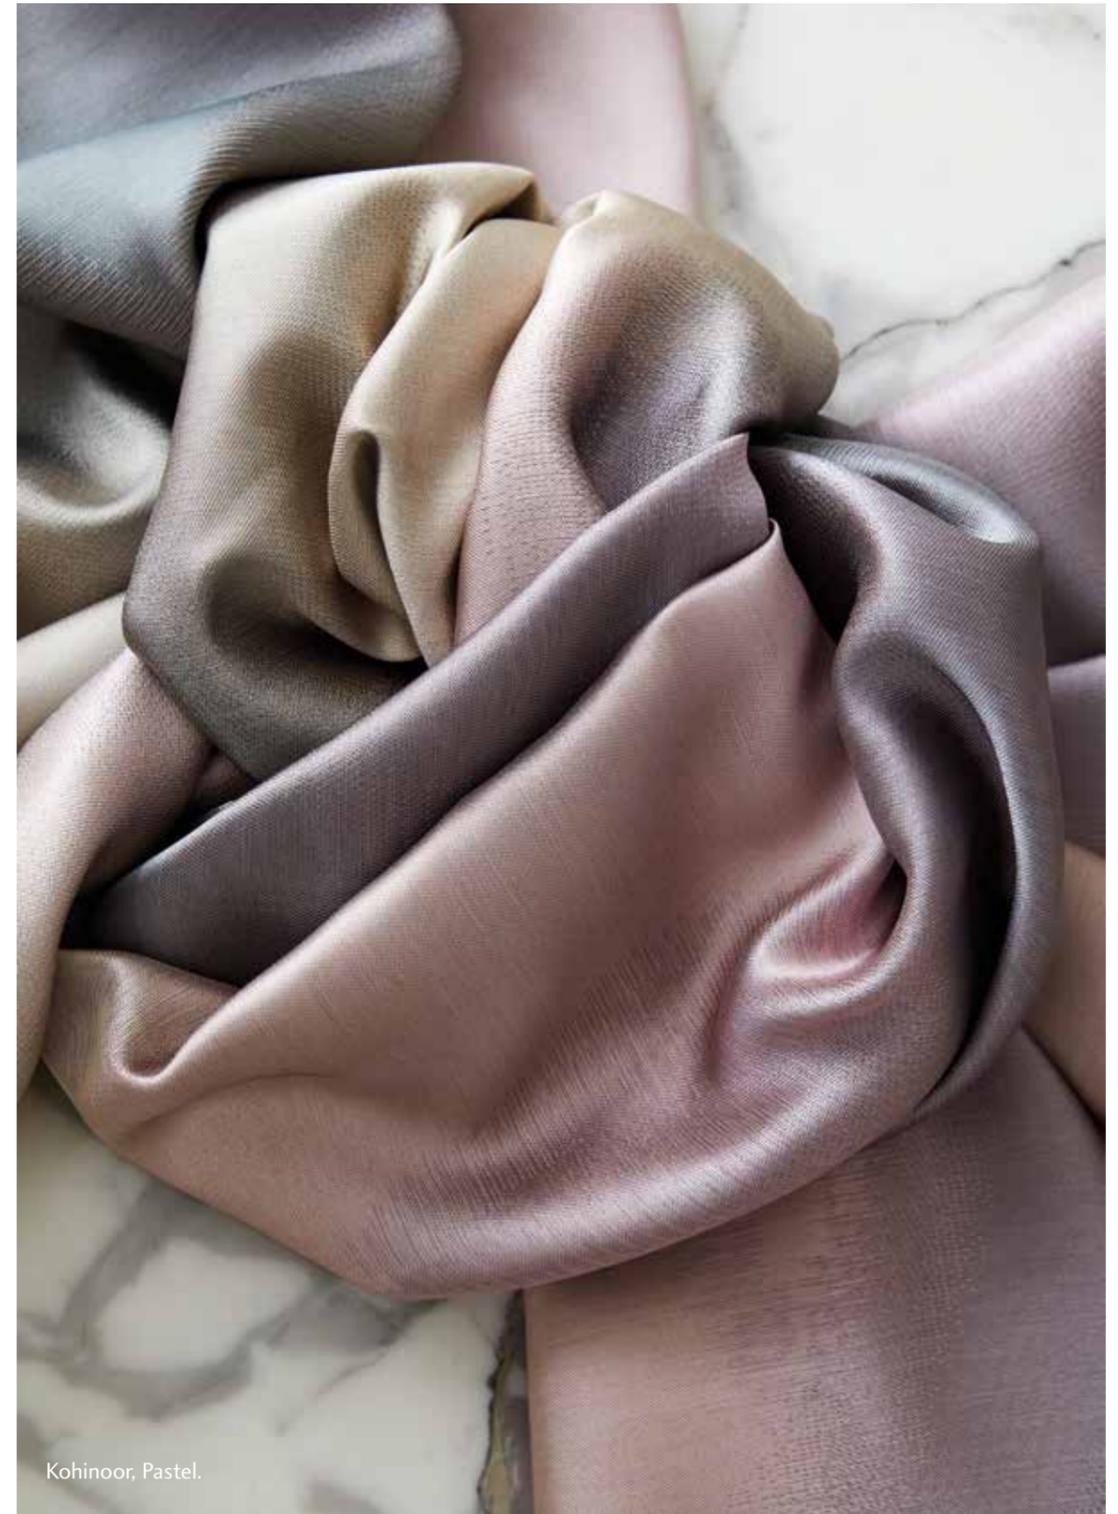

Hatton

This season, James Hare's designs are inspired by the beauty of jewels, above all the romance and elegance surrounding the most coveted of all – the diamond. In the heart of London is the famous Hatton Garden jewellery quarter and centre of the diamond trade. The architectural style, as well as the fabulous gems, are woven into this new collection of interior fabrics ideal for drapery, soft furnishings, wallcoverings and upholstery.

Kohinoor, Pastel.

Kohinoor

Named after the most famous diamond in the world, the luminescent fabric flows with a light similar to the multi-coloured facets of its namesake. Iridescent colours are created by using specific weaves to achieve maximum colour vibrancy. At the heart of the fabric can be found a diamond shape and its subtlety is both elegant and glamorous.

Mineral

Mineral is inspired by the effect of light glistening on a dampened stone. This semi-plain silk has a shimmering surface, which is particularly attractive in the "New Neutral" colour palette of blush pink and ice blue.
