SEVILLE COLLECTION

Seville

With the power and strength of a bullfight, yet the grace of a flamenco dance, Marge Carson introduces the Seville Collection. This stunning collection reflects the Spanish city's heritage of solid designs, characterized by pieces that are generous in scale but detailed with intricate wrought iron, complex hand carved forms and exquisite marquetry. As a result, the group is bold and substantial but, at the same time, casual and refined. Inspired by the inland seaport's rich history of trade and innovation during its "Golden Age" - Seville reaped the benefits of being at the crossroads of the Old and New Worlds, thanks to treasures found across the Atlantic by Christopher Columbus - the distinctive designs of this collection respectfully nod to that wealthy era of the past while meeting the needs of present-day living. ~
