OPERA GARDEN COLLECTION

West Green House

West Green House Garden, on a summer's night of Opera, inspired one of the UK's most famous fabric houses to design the Baker Lifestyle 2011 collection around it.

Designs on cotton and linens, both embroidered and printed fabrics, celebrate not only the garden flowers, follies, even its chickens, but also the impressions of the garden's Opera nights, of evening clad gentlemen's bow ties, orchestral instruments and the silhouettes of performers are all translated into design.

A complementary collection of checks and striped fabrics with wallpaper designs that include a re-creation of the patina of the old orangery walls, the gravel paths and the whimsical imprint of a chicken's footsteps, captured forever as one strayed across the wet concrete, adds up to the most imaginative range.

A collection of rolls of patterned wallpaper and fabric are arranged in a rustic, weathered metal bucket. The patterns include various designs such as chickens, floral motifs, and abstract patterns. The bucket is set against a background of a grassy field with trees in the distance.
