Our family history

Carlo

Elena

1929 - It all begins ...

Grandfather Carlo Turati, born in 1901, sets up his own business in Giussano, in Brianza (Northern Italy), a furniture district. His artisan workshop soon becomes a small furniture factory for top-quality products.

1970 - The Path

Following the social and economic changes and the transformation of the market in the 1960s, thanks to the intuition and entrepreneurial vision of his son Giuseppe (called Peppino by his friends), the evolution of an artisan and family business dating back in 1929 becomes an industry. Tisettanta is established, becoming in times one of the leading Italian furniture companies, by creating high quality furniture lines, designed by internationally renowned architects such as Gae Aulenti, Vico Magistretti, Angelo Mangiarotti, Carlo Bartoli, Annig Sarian and Antonio Citterio. Within the family's Company, Tisettanta, Peppino's sons respectively play different roles: creative area (Anna together with her father Giuseppe), commercial area (Elena and Carlo).

1998 - Casamilano is born

Leaving the family business (Tisettanta) Anna, Elena and Carlo, while maintaining the family-run business, create Casamilano, a new brand of contemporary furniture with an international taste, then recognized worldwide in the residential and hospitality sector. Casamilano collection is fully "Made in Italy", from design to creativity. Furthermore, the entire production process is "zero kilometer", since Casamilano is deeply linked to the territory, in the heart of Brianza, which has always been synonymous with excellent production of Italian design, paying particular attention to the choice of its highly qualified suppliers and artisans, having great skills in the furniture sector. The company's mission is making a continuous search for quality, by updating its collections in keeping with all that is good in contemporary lifestyle and trends. The careful research, the choice of materials and finishes, wisely matched together, enhances the taste for details and produces unique quality objects, with an elegant and sober character, with a timeless functional design, made to last over the years in full respect for the environment. Casamilano collaborates with important and international architects such as Paola Navone, Roberto Lazzeroni, Pietro Russo, Massimiliano Raggi, Castello Lagravinese, Marco Boga, Emanuela Garbin, Laboratorio Avallone, whose creative style corresponds to the features of the collection. Remembering the past to improve the future ... this is the mission of Casamilano, which has managed to maintain its family reality, to build a solid future.

L'ECONOMIA CIRCOLARE PRESUPpone UNA RIVOLUZIONE DEI NOSTRI MODELLI PRODUTTIVI, FIORITA GRAZIE AL RIUTILIZZO, E QUINDI GRAZIE ALLA REINTERPRETAZIONE, DELLE MATERIE PRIME.

E NELLO STESSO MODO IN CUI VENGONO RIUSATI E REINTERPRETATI ELEMENTI E MATERIALI, COSÌ DEVONO E DOVRANNO ESSERE REINTERPRETATE LE PAROLE ALL'INSEGNA DEL PROGRESSO ECOSOSTENIBILE.

Per questo motivo, Casamilano, con e grazie a Lia Bosch, ha esplorato il concetto di "DECORO" e le sue origini. Il termine stesso compie un percorso semantico antichissimo, che nasce dalla radice indoeuropea "das" – ossia insegnare, meritare – per poi evolversi nel greco "dekhomai" (accettare, ricevere, accogliere) e nel latino "decere" (essere opportuno) e "decus" (decoro, dignità). Grazie a questa ricerca del vero, possiamo trasmettere il nuovo valore dietro l'anima del "decoro": l'essere degno di accogliere e quindi di imparare, di elevarsi ad uno stato di coscienza più consapevole e di conseguenza ricevere con responsabilità, senza spreco.

Lia Bosch, per Casamilano, intraprende il percorso edificante, partendo dalla collezione "SUiTable" (suitable = idoneo, adeguato): delle piccole opere provocatoriche adatte alla realizzazione di progetti sempre più importanti.

La loro importanza tuttavia non risiede nella grandezza materiale, ma nel valore e nella visione che noi vogliamo dare ad essi. Una visione nuova che inverno si riconcilia con la stessa mentalità dell'economia circolare: riciclare per arricchirsi, reinterpretare per progredire.

DAVIDE RAMELLO

THE CIRCULAR ECONOMY ASSUMES A REVOLUTION IN OUR PRODUCTION MODELS, WHICH HAS FLOURISHED THANKS TO THE REUSE AND TO THE REINTERPRETATION OF RAW MATERIALS.

IN THE SAME WAY ELEMENTS AND MATERIALS ARE REUSED AND REINTERPRETED, SO WORDS MUST BE REINTERPRETED IN THE NAME OF ECO-SUSTAINABLE PROGRESS.

For this reason, Casamilano, with and thanks to Lia Bosch, has explored the concept of "decoration" and its origins. The word has followed an ancient semantic path, which has an Indo-European root "das" - that means to teach, to deserve. It evolves into Greek "dekhomai" (to accept, to receive, to welcome) and into Latin "decere" (to be appropriate) and "decus" (decorum, dignity).

Thanks to this search for truth, we can transmit the new value, behind the soul of the "decorum": being worthy to welcome, and therefore to learn, to rise to a more aware state of consciousness and consequently to receive responsibly, without waste.

Lia Bosch, for Casamilano, embarks on the edifying path, starting from the "SUiTable" collection (SUiTable has to be seen as a pun): small provocative works suitable for the realization of more and more important projects.

However, their importance does not lie in the material greatness, but in the value and in the vision we want to give to them. A new vision that indeed reconciles with the same mindset of the circular economy: recycling to get rich, reinterpreting to progress.
